

COMMENT OF
THE DAY

U.S. Economic Policy

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has presented Congress with details of the Republican Administration's new foreign economic programme—and it is interesting to note that it is virtually the same as that which he presented to Congress in March of last year. He has made one important addition and that is the proposal to establish an international finance corporation to encourage the investment of private capital abroad. It would be tempting to conclude, following the surprisingly good reception the programme has already received from Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, that the President's plans are assured of success. Last year, it will be recalled, Protectionist elements within the Congress forced the President to defer the programme and the only consolation (and a poor one at that) for the free trade protagonists was that the President's tariff cutting powers were extended for one year. This year the situation has certainly changed in Mr. Eisenhower's favour. His personal support within the party and the country has improved considerably since last year. Again, the low tariff Democratic Party now controls the Congress instead of the largely high tariff Republican Party which would also suggest that he is now assured of some measure of success with this "top priority" programme. There is a final point in Mr. Eisenhower's favour also brought about by the recent elections and that is the chairmanship of the various Congressional committees has changed and the advocates of freer trade occupy the positions formerly held by the opponents.

BUT political observers in Washington do not believe that the alignment of the opposing forces has changed sufficiently to guarantee complete approval of the programme. High tariff partisans seem to be better organised than the free trade group and it is reasonable to expect that in each constituency likely to be adversely affected by increased foreign imports, the Protectionists will exert powerful pressure on members of Congress. Individuals high tariff supporters may be expected to use some strong levers in their attempts to undermine the position of the free traders. As a result there is no feeling of certainty in Washington that the programme will receive immediate and overwhelming approval.

THE proposals as a whole appear as a realistic attempt to do away with what Mr. Eisenhower described as the "numerous uneconomic man-made barriers which mutually disadvantageous trade." Particularly welcome is his proposal to offer inducements to American investors to send their capital overseas for as the President points out this is an essential requirement of a vigorous scheme to promote the economic improvement of the free world. The programme can hardly be criticised as being too sudden and its instigators too impetuous. The Western world particularly has been waiting for this plan ever since the Republicans came to office. And its eventual success should ensure a more economically stable Europe and bring the convertibility of European currencies one stage nearer to fruition. Some nations may complain that the American proposals offer no early promise of one trade barrier being lifted—the embargo on the export of strategic goods to Iron Curtain countries. This is however more of a political question than a purely economic one and is a subject for separate discussion. In fact, talks on this very question are in progress now in London and Paris. One observation on the embargo: many will agree that the time is now appropriate for a sensible re-evaluation of the word "strategic." Undoubtedly the Americans may feel that the new foreign economic programme will, if successfully implemented, provide adequate compensation for the losses suffered in trade with the Communists. That may be so but the fact still remains that the barrier exists and it is becoming increasingly difficult to see how it can be removed.

INVADERS MARCH INTO COSTA RICA

Nicaragua Charged With Promoting Aggression TOWN REPORTED TAKEN

Washington, Jan. 12.

Costa Rica claims that an invading force crossed the Nicaraguan border yesterday. The armed force made a deep penetration and took a small town, Villa Quesada.

There were then these dramatic developments:

- Costa Rica almost immediately severed diplomatic relations with Nicaragua;
- Costa Rica appealed for United States military assistance to repel the "forces of invasion" but the American Government announced it refused to take sides in the dispute;
- The Council of the Organisation of American States, which met immediately reports of the invasion were received in Washington, voted unanimously to intercede in the quarrel;
- A commission composed of representatives of five American Governments was designated to leave immediately for Costa Rica and Nicaragua for a first-hand investigation of the differences between the two countries.

Mr. Fernando Fournier, Costa Rica's Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, told the session of the council of American States as it began: "Costa Rica has been invaded. Our fears expressed to the council yesterday have been realised and blood is flowing in our country. "So we have come again to the council to ask for immediate action and the protection we feel we should get under the inter-American system."

ACCUSED OF LYING
Dr. Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Ambassador of Nicaragua, accused Costa Rica of "lying without shame." Nicaragua emphatically denied that Villa Quesada had been taken by troops from Nicaragua.

A communiqué from the Costa Rican Foreign Ministry said earlier that the Villa Quesada garrison and people put up a "futile resistance." In San Jose, Costa Rica, President Jose Figueres said the invasion was the start of an "aggression which has been in preparation for several years."

USING PLANES
He said that the invaders were using several small transport planes and that their immediate objective was to establish a landing field in the Villa Quesada area as a base to develop the invasion.

"We are preparing to meet them with all possible means," Mr. Figueres said. Government troops have been dispatched against the invaders but apparently had not yet made contact.

Aneurin Bevan Says:
'Britain Will Last 32 Hours If War Is Declared'

London, Jan. 11. Mr. Aneurin Bevan, left-wing Socialist leader, predicted in a speech at Harleston in Norfolk tonight that in the event of war, England would only last 32 hours.

"You will see in a few weeks' time," he declared, "when the Government while paper on civil defence is out that all possibility of effective defence will be abandoned."

Stressing that the people must realise that the war between the nations is no longer a matter of policy but an act of self-defence, Mr. Bevan said: "No nation can win the war."

He admitted that Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill was anxious to meet the Russians and declared, "if the Prime Minister had his own way he would meet them. But he is stopped. Who stops him? The Americans."—France-Press.

Big Operation Against Mau Mau Begins

Nairobi, Jan. 12. The biggest military operation against Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya, began at dawn today. Nine battalions of British and African troops began a systematic sweep through the forests of the Aberdare mountains north-west of Nairobi.

Four British battalions and five African battalions are taking part in the operation which is expected to last one month.

BRIEFING BY HUNT
The newly-arrived British Prime Minister, Sir John Hunt, leader of the Everest Expedition before leaving Britain.

"The troops which have been moving into position during the past few days have already killed 20 terrorists and captured 100 Mau Mau guerrillas."

"They will be supplied during the operation by air drops, pack animals and porters."—France-Press.

Paratroops Bail Out From Stricken Aircraft

Nile, Tennessee, Jan. 11. A C-119 Flying Boxcar believed carrying 34 paratroopers and five crewmen crashed near here late today. Thirty-seven men parachuted from the plane to safety.

The public information officer at Stewart base said the huge transport crashed about eight miles northeast of the base. He said it was reported to be carrying a full complement of paratroopers—34—and five crew members.

Earlier today, 32 soldiers parachuted safely from another Flying Boxcar near Miles City, Montana, after one of the plane's twin engines caught fire. The four crewmen landed the C-119 at the Miles City Municipal Airport a few minutes after the last soldier had bailed out. Firemen extinguished the flames.—United Press.

Threat To Blow Up McCarthy's House

Washington, Jan. 11. A next door neighbour of Senator Joseph McCarthy said today a person with a "foreign voice" had threatened to blow up the Senator's house tonight.

Mr. McCarthy himself was unperturbed by the threat, dismissing it as a "strange crockpot." "The left-wingers, screwballs and crockpots couldn't murder me politically," he said. "I am not afraid of anybody doing it physically."

STRANGE VOICE
The threatening call was made to Mrs. George W. Ennis, who lives in a Victorian row house next to the McCarthy's.

Mrs. Ennis, a middle-aged, red-headed woman, told reporters that a person with a "strange foreign voice" called her and said: "We are going to blow up Senator McCarthy's house tonight and want you to vacate your premises."

Mrs. Ennis, visibly shaken by the experience, said she was not at all afraid of the threat, but she was sure the person who called her was not a native-born American.

said many of the troops taking part in the invasion were believed to have been recruited in Mexico City, in Guatemala and Nicaragua. He said the attackers expected to overthrow President Jose Figueres within a few days but to do so might have to bomb San Jose with their air force.

Mexico City sources said the plan of attack called for three comparatively small groups of soldiers, well armed with rapid-fire bump guns, to be flown into Costa Rica and to move as a spearhead toward the capital from three directions.

A revolutionary source said President Figueres was considered "too leftist."

Nicaraguan radio stations at Managua broadcast reports that a revolution had broken out at Villa Quesada and three other points in Costa Rica. Official sources denied any knowledge that the invading army had crossed into Costa Rica from Nicaragua.

Officials here said full identification of the invading force had yet to be made but that there was no question Nicaragua was the only possible source of the invasion.

NO LONGER WELCOME
In appealing to the Organisation of American States last Sunday, President Figueres said a "mercenary force" was concentrated on Lake Nicaragua, ready to invade Costa Rica.

The invasion came only a few hours after Alfonso Orrego Urbina, Nicaraguan Charge d'Affaires, left for home at the request of the Costa Rican Government. He was declared no longer welcome in this country because of his alleged mixing in domestic politics.

Reuter reports from San Jose in Costa Rica said Costa Rican troops commanded by the Public Works Minister, Francisco Orlich, are trying to surround about fifty rebels who seized Villa Quesada in a dawn attack.

BUILDING AIRSTRIPS
The Costa Rican Government is also using local DC-3 airplanes to bomb and strafe the rebels, who are reported to be building an airstrip.

All airport and strategic points in the tiny Central American Republic were yesterday put under heavy guard in face of fears of a general invasion from across the Nicaraguan border.

The Cabinet and general staff are in permanent session and thousands of volunteer reservists have been mobilised to reinforce the 8,000 strong Civil Guard, recently retrained with nearly 2,000,000 worth of U.S. machine guns, mortars and bazookas.—All Agencies.

Temperature Hits 26.5 Record Cold In Hongkong

Last night the temperature dropped to 26.5 degrees F in Sek Kong. It was the lowest atmospheric temperature ever recorded in the Colony.

While frost appeared in many parts of the valley, Happy Valley racecourse was also covered with white hoar frost this morning.

Colonel H.B.L. Dowling O.B.E. who is clerk of the course said: "I have never seen anything like it before and I have been here 49 years."

The lowest figure at the Royal Observatory yesterday was 37.8, showing no drop from the day before, with a maximum of 58.7.

There was not much wind in Sek Kong, Mr. G. S. P. Heywood, Director of the Royal Observatory said, so the cold air accumulated in the sheltered valley.

Getting Warmer

It was 63 years ago, on January 15, 1892, that the lowest temperature of 22.0 was recorded. Since then, 27.5 was recorded in January of 1900, and the third coldest day was the 13th, before yesterday, with a temperature of 37.8.

Taken at six o'clock this morning, the temperature was 43.6, higher than yesterday, and it is likely to get slightly warmer in Hongkong.

Mr. Heywood said, as the monsoon winds blowing along the China coast have been weakening during the last 24 hours.

Lennox Boyd Tells America About British Colonial Policy

Washington, Jan. 11. Mr. Alan Lennox Boyd, Britain's Secretary of State for the Colonies, said today that all British political parties were "irrevocably committed" economically and morally, to a policy of growing independence for the Colonial empire.

"And we have no intention whatever of going back on that," he added in an interview televised in London and shown by a local Washington television station.

The interview was the first of a series with British leaders being distributed by the British Information Services to local television stations throughout the United States.

NOT ANTIQUE
Mr. Lennox Boyd, explaining Britain's policies towards the Colonies, said that to Americans the word "colonialism" means—whether furniture china or ideas—something antique and certainly smacking of domination.

"To us it means, in the old Latin sense, a cultivator," he added. "We have often had to cultivate pretty stony ground."

Mr. Lennox Boyd emphasised that Britain did not interfere with local Governments, unless as happened in British Guiana, where non-interference would lead to the establishment of a Communist regime.

A DUTY
Discussing the rate of progress towards the eventual independence of the Colonies, he said: "We get a duty to see that the interests of all the people are looked after, not just of the people who happen to be the ruling political figures of the time, particularly in societies that are gradually developing."

'Hammarskjold Has Made Progress': Official RED CHINA MAY OFFER TO EXCHANGE AIRMEN FOR STUDENTS

London, Jan. 11. Reuter reported today that Communist China was about to launch a campaign aimed at the exchange of the 11 American airmen imprisoned in Peking for Chinese students held in the United States.

Meanwhile in New York, a United Nations spokesman, has commented on reports that Mr. Dag Hammarskjold, U.N. Secretary-General, had failed in his Peking talks to obtain the release of the 11 imprisoned airmen.

"The Secretary General has not failed. He has made progress towards the goal set for him by the General Assembly."

"He was asked by the General Assembly to seek by the means most appropriate in his judgment continuing and unremitting efforts for the release of the 11 airmen and other United Nations prisoners still detained."

"The talks in Peking were 'useful' towards this end. They established a basis upon which further progress can be made."

OTHER INFORMATION

The spokesman added that his statement was based on the joint communiqué issued yesterday on their talks by Mr. Hammarskjold and Mr. Chou En-lai, the Chinese Prime Minister.

Asked whether the U.N. meant progress towards the early liberation of the prisoners, the spokesman said: "Hammarskjold said that the U.N. meant progress towards the early liberation of the prisoners."

The spokesman's statement, related to an American news agency report originating from London to the effect that unnamed diplomatic sources said that apparently Mr. Hammarskjold failed to win the airmen's immediate release.

CHINA'S CAMPAIGN
Communist China is about to launch a campaign aimed at the exchange of 11 American Airmen for Chinese students held in the United States, it was believed in London today.

China's official mouthpiece, the New China News Agency, today reported a protest letter signed by eight students who have returned home from America.

It reported that a large number of students were being kept in the United States and added: "We demand the United States to stop immediately its unjustifiable act of forcibly holding back Chinese."

A POINTERS
Coming on the heels of Mr. Dag Hammarskjold's departure from Peking, after seeking the airmen's release, the protest was seen here as a pointer to the Chinese attitude.

Observers suggested it was the first shot in a new Communist Chinese propaganda campaign aimed at striking a bargain.

The first students returned to China from America reached Peking today.

Enough points are to wipe out a division of troops sent up in smoke over the English countryside today.

Royal Air Force and Police courses spread the word through the East Angles countryside, where 115 tons of World War II mustard gas drums are being exploded at an RAF test dump.

They told the 1,000 inhabitants of Hoxingfield, Harlow, Great Britain, and Little Eversden that the gas was being exploded under such conditions, and not to be alarmed.

A large "mustard gas" sign was erected. An RAF helicopter hovered over the area and released the drums. The gas was then dispersed by the wind.

The gas, stored in drums for use in the event of a war, was being exploded to show that it was safe.

home last June. Nothing had been heard of them before today.

Mr. Hammarskjold is likely to wait until his return to New York before he attempts to clarify publicly the cryptic joint communiqué which emerged from his talks in Peking.

Meanwhile a U.N. spokesman's statement (reported above) today provided more support to the view that the Secretary General is bringing back with him for discussion with the United States and possibly other allied Governments the terms on which the Chinese have said they would be prepared to consider releasing the airmen.

Hammarskjold Off To Tokyo

Mr. Hammarskjold, United Nations Secretary-General, left London this morning by S.A.S. plane for Tokyo after an overnight stay here. He was accompanied by five of his party.

From Japan Mr. Hammarskjold and his party will board a United States Government plane for the United States, where he will report to the U.N. General Assembly on the outcome of his talks with the Chinese Prime Minister, Mr. Chou En-lai, on the 11 American airmen imprisoned in China.

The spokesman's statement clearly implied that Mr. Hammarskjold has informed his headquarters that he was able to make some progress and that the matter is subject to more talks with the Chinese.

Mr. John Foster Dulles, the United States Secretary of State, and Mr. Henry Lodge, the U.S. representative at the United Nations, must also have had this information in their possession.

when they conferred in New York today.

Mr. Hammarskjold will see Mr. Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States immediately after his arrival in New York from Peking.

Mr. Hammarskjold is expected back on Thursday evening—Reuter.

What Happened To The OTHER Burgess Letters?

From Our Own Correspondent London, Jan. 11. Guy Burgess, the missing diplomat, who has sent Christmas letters to his mother in London for two years, ran away with several letters earlier, it was disclosed today.

And none of these got through to the U.S. either.

His mother, Mrs. J. R. Burgess, said in her letter in London tonight: "In this second letter, Guy says he wrote to me before Christmas, 1953. I didn't get those other letters and I don't know how many there were—he didn't say."

"My son did not know I had received his 1953 message until it was published in newspapers."

NO INDICATION
Mrs. Burgess said tonight: "There is nothing in the letter to indicate where my son is or what he's doing. He gave me no hint at all."

It is thought that Burgess, former second secretary at Washington, may be advising Russia on Western affairs.

AID PLAN FOR ASIA

Stassen In Paris
To Discuss
Vast Programme

MARSHALL PLAN LINES

Paris, Jan. 11.

The U.S. Mutual Security Director, Mr Harold Stassen, flew here tonight for a major economic meeting to talk about convertibility and the possibility of a vast new Allied Marshall Plan for Asia.

Mr Stassen's first official meeting will be with the other 13 OEEC (Organisation for European Economic Co-operation) Finance Ministers tomorrow at 10.30 a.m. to hear the report of a study group on convertibility.

But American sources said the FOA chief also would confer here with his European colleagues on President Dwight Eisenhower's proposals for economic aid to the underdeveloped countries of Southeast Asia as part of a positive programme to stop Communist aggression in the area.

Sources here said he would ask the Western European countries which benefitted from the Marshall Plan to support the United States both morally and financially in the vast economic aid programme envisioned for the Far East.

TALKED WITH BUTLER

Mr Stassen has already discussed it with the British Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr R.A. Butler.

The FOA chief arrives in Paris in the wake of Mr Eisenhower's plan to Congress yesterday for freer world trade and a reduction of U.S. tariffs by 15 per cent within the next three years. But there was some hesitation in official quarters on the proposal for channelling so much aid to Asia at the probable expense of Western Europe.

Sources said Mr Stassen would brief the other Foreign Ministers on the U.S. plan for Asian aid in greater detail and try to win their help.

The United States would like all members of the Western alliance to share the responsibility for increasing capital investments and improving living conditions in the underdeveloped Asian areas.

GREATER CONVERTIBILITY

Mr Stassen and the American delegation are expected to throw their weight in favour of greater convertibility of monies when the official OEEC meetings open on Thursday afternoon.

They will also back a proposition by the Steering Board for Trade which recommends that trade liberalisation figures be boosted to 90 per cent except in three special categories—raw materials, manufactured goods and foodstuffs.—United Press.

Vertical Jet Plane
Development
In United States

Washington, Jan. 11.

The Air Force disclosed today that it has ordered development of a jet aeroplane which can rise and land vertically without benefit of a runway.

It apparently will be the first jet military vertical take-off (VTO) plane.

The Navy has two VTO planes, one now in flight test, which are powered by turbine engines harnessed to propellers.

CONTRACT AWARDED

In a one-sentence announcement, the Air Force said it had awarded a contract to Ryan Aeronautical Co., San Diego, California, "for the development of a jet-powered vertical take-off aircraft."

There were reports in aviation circles that the plane might be powered by a British Rolls Royce Avon jet engine. The Air Force would give no information on the possible use of a jet VTO plane nor would it say specifically that the Ryan project is for a fighter type aircraft.

A VTO jet, however, would be an important answer to the growing problem of long runways required by "conventional" jet planes. It might be used in forward combat areas for support of ground troops and in the continental United States for air defence.

The speed of the plane was expected in informed quarters to be 600 miles an hour or better, compared to about 500 miles per hour for Navy's turbo-prop VTO planes.

The two Navy planes are the FY-1, built by Convair at San Diego and now under flight test, and the FY-1, built by Lockheed at Burbank, California. Both are powered by 5,650 horsepower Allison turbo-prop engines.—United Press.

Airman

London, Jan. 11.

Thirty Scots lassies and widows want to marry a 54-year-old British airman who wrote from West Africa to the Provost (mayor) of the village of Ayr in Scotland to help him find a wife.

The airman who described himself as "tall and handsome and going grey at the temples," said that he wanted a "tall, slim wife, able to drive, rich or poor, but not over 45."

The airman's name was not disclosed. The 30 or so applicants have submitted photographs and letters to the Provost for forwarding to the airman.—France-Press.

U.S. Stockpile Adequate To Meet Needs

Washington, Jan. 11.

Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, said today that the Soviet Union's possession of the H-bomb "is or ought to be of prime concern to all free people because it reduces the time which we have to work out a modus vivendi."

Admiral Strauss, addressing a luncheon meeting of the National Press Club, said that "the most important discovery of the past year" on the "debit" side of the ledger was that the Soviet Premier, Mr. Georgi Malenkov "was not talking through his hat about thermo-nuclear reaction." He added that "the Soviets have got it. There is no doubt about it."

Admiral Strauss declared, however, that "our stockpile of weapons is large" and adequate to meet all foreseeable needs "in the unhappy event of war."

Setback For Mr France

Paris, Jan. 11.

M. Pierre Schneider, the Popular Republican candidate, was tonight elected new Speaker of the French National Assembly in the third ballot.

The election represents a setback for the Mendes-France government in so far as M. Schneider represents the Opposition and M. Le Troquer, a member of the Socialist party, represents one of the chief groups forming the Government's majority.

As the Speaker, M. Le Troquer, took no part in the voting on the Paris Agreement, though the Communists have again accused him of supporting German rearmament. M. Schneider also abstained in the final Assembly vote on German rearmament.

M. Schneider, who is 50, is a second world war hero who earned a Croix de Guerre for his part in the war. He was a pupil of former Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, then a teacher. During the war he won the Legion of Honour, Croix de Guerre and the Resistance Medal.—Reuters.

Refugees In Bloody Battle

Haiphong, Jan. 11.

Ten thousand Catholic refugees are reported to have fought a bloody battle with 5,000 Communist Vietnamese troops in a vain attempt to escape, sources close to the International Armistice Commission said today.

The unconfirmed report said that six Vietnamese soldiers were killed and about 40 were wounded.

The Catholics were trying to get to the coast to sail for Hanoi. The Communists dispersed them with heavy losses. A number of the refugees, including a priest, were arrested, the reports said.

AT BALANG

The incident took place at Balang, about 20 kilometres (12 miles) northeast of Thanh Hoa in North Annam.

Since the armistice, some 600,000 Northern Vietnamese have fled to the South in the face of sufficing Communist oppression. Most of them escaped by making their way to the coast and then embarking on rafts, junks or other craft.

French naval vessels patrolling the northern Vietnam coast have picked up thousands of refugees, who managed to sail out of Communist control. The refugees were mainly Roman Catholics.

The reports of the battle did not indicate when it occurred, but presumably it was within the last two days.—United Press.

Motorist Rams Leopard: Convict Escapes

Lusaka, Jan. 11.

A motorist of Fort Jameson, Northern Rhodesia, rammed a leopard with his motor car and injured it. It escaped and in the excitement of the hunt for it a long-term convict escaped from the local gaol.

The leopard had been reported in the area and was regarded as a danger to poultry and small animals. When Mr. G.A.C. Harrison saw it on the road, he ran it down, but it escaped into the bush.

While the police and citizens were looking for it to Arden it was a prisoner took advantage of the distraction to pry his way through the door of his cell and ran away.—France-Press.

Aga Khan Mystery Deepens: Successor Still Not Named

From David Burk

Assouan, Egypt, Jan. 11.

A statement by the seventy-seven-year-old Aga Khan made to me tonight, added to the mystery of who will succeed him as leader to the 20,000,000 devout Ismaili Moslems.

The Aga Khan, who is ill at Ormate Cataract Hotel, here, was visited by his son Aly Khan, and then last Sunday Aly disappeared rumours that he might not succeed his father. He said "there has never been any disagreement between us."

UNTIMELY

It was at once accepted that Aly would succeed him—but it was reported that the Aga Khan was growing angrier and angrier because he considered his son's "announcement" untimely.

Tonight, therefore, I asked the Aga Khan for a statement. He carefully considered one, then he dictated it to me.

He said, "There is positively no truth in the rumour that I have appointed my son Aly to succeed me. I consider it absolutely disgusting that people should be asking about a man's inheritance while he is still alive."

Bomb Explodes In Pennsylvania Station

New York, Jan. 11.

A home-made bomb exploded in a Pennsylvania station waiting room at the height of the evening rush hour today, but the police said no one was injured.

The authorities said the bomb had been placed in a small baggage locker in the Long Island railway waiting room. A passerby turned in a fire alarm following the explosion shortly before 5.30 p.m.

A railway spokesman said the blast caused no panic among thousands of commuters. The only apparent damage was caused to the locker door, which was blown open.

Early last year a home-made bomb was touched off in the washroom of Grand Central Station. The blast caused considerable damage but no one was injured.—United Press.

Too Many Laughs In Film

Copenhagen, Jan. 11.

The British film "Doctor in the House" is proving very successful here—but some Danes have complained that it is too funny. In letters to the cinema management, patrons complain that the humorous parts come so fast that they cannot get their breath. These critics suggest that there ought to be quiet moments in the film so that they can recover.—China Mail Special.

New W. Berlin Mayor

Berlin, Jan. 11.

Dr. Otto Suhr, a Social Democrat, today became Governing Mayor of West Berlin—the post made famous by the late Dr. Ernst Reuter.

Dr. Suhr was first nominated for the post in October, 1953 after Dr. Reuter's death but he was defeated by Dr. Walther Schreiber, a Christian Democrat.—Reuter.

Malayan Terrorist Leader Gives Up The Fight

Kuala Lumpur, Jan. 11.

Former terrorist leader, Osman China and eight bedraggled comrades who looked like "scarecrows in ragged uniforms," came out of the jungle this week and surrendered to security forces.

Gaunt and covered with sores, the men ate three meals at one sitting—their first taste of rice for a whole year. Osman China, a Malay, educated in English-language schools here, who passed his Cambridge examinations before going underground, was the editor of "Voice of Freedom."

However, he gave it up several years ago, and even gave up his propaganda talks this year when the struggle for food took up all his time.

He estimated that 20 days out of a month were devoted to frantic search for food in the jungle. The terrorists lived on snakes, elephant meat, rubber seeds, anything edible.

"CIGARETTES"

They made "cigarettes" out of papaya leaves, but the thing they missed most was salt. China said: "He told of ridding death over and over again to secure camp sites abandoned by the security forces for even a trace of salt."

China, gaunt and emaciated, had survived years of hardship, having given himself up to the security forces for even a trace of salt.—China Mail Special.

LAPLAND TO CAPE TOWN THE HARD WAY

Cape Town, Jan. 11.

A boarded German, Mr. P. Reinard, has arrived at Cape Town after travelling 24,000 miles in 20 months, from Lapland. He has used skis, bicycles and hitch-hiked, while for 2,500 miles he walked.

Mr. Reinard left Lapland in March, 1953. On skis he went to Norway, where he obtained a bicycle and rode it through Europe.

In Switzerland he was caught by an avalanche crossing the Oberalp Pass. It took him two hours to dig his way out. He had all his baggage, including his 10 millimetre camera and films, stolen at Tetuan in Spanish Morocco.

He was in Casablanca when riots broke out. He had just left the market place when a bomb exploded, killing 27 people. In the heart of Africa he was taking a picture of an elephant, which charged him. He dropped his bicycle and fled. He then walked the next 2,500 miles, visiting many famous places in the interior. From Nairobi he hitch-hiked after climbing Kilimanjaro. He will return to Berlin by way of the East African coast.—China Mail Special.

U.S. Soldiers Held By Germans

Kaiserlautern, Jan. 11.

Two American soldiers are being held at Schweigen, a small German town near the French border. "While the authorities investigate a reported attempt to shoot their way into France, German Customs officers," an Army spokesman here, said today.

"The two soldiers are reported to have fired on the Customs officers when halted at the border checkpoint," said the spokesman. "No one was injured. They were armed with pistols and 163 rounds of ammunition when taken into custody, according to Military Police."

The soldiers, who were not identified, said they left their unit at Heilbronn yesterday.—United Press.

ROTARY STAMP

Canberra, Jan. 11.

To commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Rotary movement on February 23 Australia will issue a new 34d postage stamp.

The Acting Postmaster-General, Sir Philip McBride, said that the stamp would be a carmine and the design would include the Rotary badge superimposed on a globe.

Other countries are expected to issue similar stamps on February 23, the date of the first Rotary meeting at Chicago in 1905.—China Mail Special.

STOWAWAY TO STAY WITH SHIP

Victoria, B.C., Jan. 11.

Icharo Hoshi has received his wish—he is going to see the world.

The 15-year-old Japanese shoeshine boy arrived here during the week-end aboard a Greek cargo vessel.

An orphan of the Hiroshima atom bomb blast, he had stolen aboard the vessel at Kobe, Japan, and hidden under a tarpaulin.

Captain Nicolas Pinoy of the freighter Haydon said, on Monday night the boy would remain with the ship until it touches Japan again "maybe two or three years from now."

He was discovered three days out from Kobe and quickly made friends with the crew. He told them he had run away from home.

The owners of the vessel decided to let the boy stay aboard, because it would cost $800 to send him home directly.

Now in drydock here for inspection and painting, the Haydon will leave for Seattle tomorrow. The boy will be in charge of the ship's mail bag.—China Mail Special.

TOMORROW
The Crisis
Lester Cole, Creator's Own Story
By Lester Cole

The Army hockey players are awarded the Spot of Honour at the top of the Sports Parade this week by reason of their fine wins at the week-end.

The 4-1 defeat of the strong Recrolo 'A' by Army 'A' puts the soldiers once again in a most favourable position to win the First Division League Championship... and such a success would be but due reward for a season of consistently good play.

The Army 'B' side also did well to score a 3-1 away victory over their Dutch opponents.

REFEREES' DINNER

The Army Football Referees Association held its Annual Dinner at the NAAFI Club in Chatham Road on Monday evening. A large gathering of members and guests enjoyed a most pleasant get-together and heard some excellent after-dinner speeches.

One of the great disappointments, however, was the absence, through illness, of Major C. Walpole, ROAC, Chairman of the Referees' Association.

Major Walpole had been looking forward eagerly to his first Annual Dinner as Chairman, and in his absence his speech was read by Mr. Mintz, one of the senior referees of the Association.

In his reply to the speech, Major C. D. Elrick, MBE, Secretary of the Referees' Association, combined with pointed humour, and a lot of good commonsense in a bright speech that kept the gathering in happy mood.

Major A. C. A. Walker, MBE, Secretary of the Referees' Association, proposed the toast to the visitors in one of his typically bright interludes of repartee.

Colonel J. A. Dawson, CBE, Chairman of the Land Forces Sports Board, who was the Guest of Honour, replied to the Toast and dwelt at length on the part that team officials must play to ensure that referees are given every possible assistance to do their job.

Colonel Dawson said that it was the responsibility of team officials to make it clear that they would not tolerate misdeeds from their players. He added that the Army was jealous of its reputation and certainly would not permit a player to continue in representative football if he was incapable of conducting himself correctly.

Speaking on another topical theme, Colonel Dawson said that it was his own view that the day of competitive football under floodlights had not yet arrived in Hongkong. He said that personally he felt that we needed more practical experience of playing under such conditions before the question of suitability for competitive soccer could be seriously considered.

Among the guests were Mr. C. S. Wang, Chairman of the Hongkong Football Association, and Mrs. Wang, Brig. Young, Mr. K. K. Ip, Mr. and Mrs. L. Williams, Mr. Y. F. Mak, and Capt. J. A. Kearney, R.N., and Mrs. Kearney.

The evening was a great success and reflected the overall healthy state of this thriving association which is doing so much to improve the standard of football in the Army... and is also giving a great deal of material assistance to the Hongkong Football Association.

ATHLETICS

Army athletes will be out in force at Caroline Hill this week-end when the HKAAA stages an Open Meeting. The entry list contains the names of many well-known soldier athletes and it is confidently expected that they will be well represented in the winning lists.

The next big item on the calendar is the HKAAA Pentathlon which will take place at Caroline Hill on Sunday, February 6, at 2.30 p.m.

The events in the Pentathlon, in the order in which they will take place, are as follows:—200 Metres, Discus Throw, Long Jump, Javelin Throw and 1,500 Metres.

Entry forms can be obtained from the SCPT at HQLE (Tel. 2411 Ex. 468).

I am asked to point out to intending competitors that entry forms have to be lodged with the Hon. Secy. HKAAA by January 20 and they are therefore advised to get their forms completed and returned as soon as possible.

With only three days left before entries close for the Coldbeck Cup, the PABRIE Football Championship, nine teams are waiting to go into the draw for the Hongkong section of the draw.

The following are the entries received up to late hour yesterday:—27 Lt. Bty. RA, 42 Fd. Regt. RA, 27 HAA Regt. RA, 2/2 Gorkha Rifles, 7th Hussars, 6 COD, 26 Fd. Regt. RA, District Workshops REME, 11th Infantry Workshops REME.

Entries close on January 16.

The draw for the 2nd Round of the Land Forces Hockey Cup is as follows:—

32 Med. Regt. RA v 1st Bn. Essex Regt.

14 Fd. Regt. RA v 24 Fd. Engineer Regt.

7th Hussars v 1st Bn. North Staffs.

HK Sigs. Regt. v 72 LAA Regt. RA or RASC.

The game between 7 Hussars and 1st Bn. North Staffs will take place at Sookpoo at 4 p.m. tomorrow. The 32 Med. Regt. v 1st Bn. Essex game will be played at Boundary Street on January 17 at 4 p.m. The dates and venues for the other games have not yet been fixed.

There is considerable speculation as to the eventual outcome of this competition and well informed enthusiasts suggest that, if they manage to steer clear of each other in the earlier rounds, Hongkong Signal Regt and Essex Regt. will fight out the final.

BOXING

Up to date 12 entries have been received for the Land Forces Team Boxing Championships and already it seems certain that there is going to be no competition for the premier honours. It is still not certain whether 2/2 Gorkha Rifles and 7th Hussars will compete in the Championships, but as both have some talented boxers at their disposal it is to be hoped that they will be seen in action.

The boxers of 216 Bty. RA will be in action tonight when they take part in the Red District promotion at the Missions to Seamen.

Army boxers will again be in action on January 22 when a Combined Services - China Gymnasium promotion is staged at the MacPherson Stadium in Kowloon.

The present intention is to have Royal Navy, Army, Royal Air Force and the China Gymnasium represented by six boxers each but it is believed that in order to provide good matches, and to conform to weight divisions, this may have to be varied. Whatever the eventual set-up, this looks like being another entertaining evening.

Sixteen teams will contest the Land Forces Basketball Championship. This number is not quite as high as had been expected, but whatever is missing in bulk will certainly be compensated for by lots of good play. The draw for the first round will be made in a day or so.

Congratulations to Major George Beaver on another fine display of swordsmanship at Mifino in the Hongkong Sword Club's match with Clube Militar.

Friday, January 28, has been set aside for the semi-finals of the Land Forces Hockey Championships.

The Major and Minor Units Football Leagues have now reached a most interesting stage.

In the Major Units Section 7th Hussars are favourites to lift the title. They have two games still to play and have collected 15 out of a possible 18 points. They are being hotly pursued by 1st Kings, who have 12 points out of a possible 14.

In the Minor Units League, 157 HAA Bty. are current favourites in Section I. 6 Coy. RASC look like the winners of Section II. In Section III 216 Bty. need full points from their two remaining games to slip below 250 Bty. on the list. In the New Territories, the game is more open with 27 Lt. Bty. RA, 18 Fd. Engineer Regt. RA, and 11th Infantry Workshops REME all in with a reasonable chance.

LOOKING AHEAD IN 1955 CHELSEA TO WIN THE CUP; SAMMY MCCARTHY TO KEEP HIS TITLE

By GEORGE WHITING

How wrong can you be trying to forecast the shape of sporting things to come? We shall see... In keeping with the descent from holiday to hangover, we shall start with Chelsea, and extend the neck by suggesting that Ted Drake's wobbly and wayward heroes could win the FA Cup.

Never mind those Christmas results, or that tattered display against Red Banner, or those missed penalties. This tip is offered after personal acquaintance with more than three decades of mud, flood and opprobrium at Stamford Bridge, and I defy anybody to treat the forecast with disdain, irony, sarcasm, ridicule or bad language. I've heard the lot in Fulham Palace Road.

All Chelsea need is for Bentley to read up the offside rule and Willemse to forget the Rugby Union code. Then you'll see.

As to boxing, I take that well-known purveyor of vegetables, Sammy McCarthy, to keep his British featherweight title against Empire Champion Spider Kelly in Ulster on January 22—always providing Sammy plugs his ears against the Belfast Bawl.

By the same token, coiler Dal Dover should win the Flyweight Championship against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and the left hooks of chain-maker Eric Marsden.

TITLE FOR BARTON

Other pugilistic future-peeps are that meat-porter Ron Barton will be a Cruiser-weight Champion before the end of the year.

That Jack Solomons will continue to delude himself about Entertainment Tax being reduced.

That Don Cockell will be compelled, either under the counter or over it, to sign a "return match" clause before being permitted within punching distance of Rocky Marciano.

That managers will show their habitual business acumen and physical fortitude in pursuit of 25 per cent.

Cricket? Ten thousand salutes to Tyson, May and Cowdrey, but I still think we sent to Australia a team of non-cricketers and patchwork fielders. Evans always excepted.

Wait till the South Africans get here next summer. We shall then be able to watch the art of fielding restored to its proper importance in what used to be the noblest and most joyous game of all.

Of what use are specialist batsmen and bowlers when your fielders are too stiff in the leg to bend and too uncertain of eye and hand to hold their catches?

English cricket will revive as an entertainment when we get a few more Tony Locks, Alan Watkinses, Jack Ikins and Bill Hitches, making a game of it.

It is hoped the clubs will co-operate by playing their full-strength team in these games. Players, coaches, and captains of the clubs will be briefed on what is required.

The League will accept financial responsibility for both games, and if any profit is made it will be divided among the clubs taking part.

The poor standard of scrummaging was also discussed. They recommended that when infringements in putting the ball into the scrum and the "loose head" occur the non-offending team should put the ball in.

Indians Skittle Out Sind XI For 97 Runs

Hyderabad, Jan. 11. Walls Mathias, who left school only last year, scored 50 not out for the Sind Cricket Association XI, who were skittled out for 97 by the Indian touring team on the opening day of a three-day game here today.

The Indians were 59 for one wicket at the close.

The defiant stand by Mathias was the only redeeming feature of his side's batting. He defended stubbornly until he ran out of partners. He hit four boundaries.

Fast spinner Subhas Gupta took three wickets for 45 runs. Dani took two for five, and Jasu Patel two for 14. —Reuter.

REME SPORTS POSTPONED

The Corps of Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, Athletic Meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 23, and not February 15 as originally announced. The meeting features an open Mile Race.

SPORTING SAM

By Reg. Wootton

(Edited by Sam Leitch)

... Spectacular cash bidding for Reg Matthews, of Coventry City, has zoomed to the world record fee for a goalkeeper—a near £14,000 offer from the First Division. Daily Coventry are asked to part with 22-year-old Matthews.

"We have been pestered by many managers, and now a famous club have offered a tremendous fee, one far in excess of that usually paid for goalkeepers," reveals Coventry Chairman W. Erle Shanks.

Present world record for goalkeepers is £11,000 paid by Manchester United for Reg. Allen to Queen's Park Rangers.

Will Coventry be tempted to part with Matthews, whom they signed straight from school as a 14-year-old? Their profit would be enormous.

"We will not sell Reg at ANY price," said Mr. Shanks. "We never sell a player just for the money and we don't part with men of his character and calibre."

Two First Division clubs who have shown persistent interest in Matthews are West Bromwich and Charlton.

Ambitious Cardiff have renewed their interest in 'Spurs'.

Tommy Hamner, Tiny Tommy was the subject of a Watford inquiry last week following his game against West Ham reserves.

'Spurs again indicated they are not too happy about parting with Hamner.

CHEERS FOR MANNION

Cheers for Will Mannion as he recaptured some of his England form for new club Hull City. But the fans didn't know that just before Saturday's kick-off the ex-Middlesbrough star had received a message telling him that his child had been taken to hospital seriously ill.

Given the option of missing the match and returning immediately to Middlesbrough, Will decided that it was his duty to play. And after the game he was quickly whisked to his train. That explains something for young autograph hunters who were puzzled no doubt by Mannion's lightning getaway.

Gratefully acknowledged by Hull City manager Bob Jackson is the offer—duly accepted—of training facilities for Will Mannion at Hartlepool.

Hartlepool's chief Fred Westgarth did not wait to be asked. He contacted the Hull City manager without delay. "A real sporting gesture we deeply appreciate," says chief Jackson.

Sheffield referee George McCabe need not worry too much about his "bloomer" in signalling half-time five minutes too soon in the Arsenal-West Bromwich game.

Football's bosses have "watchdogs" out this season reporting on referees and their conduct. One was present at this match.

His verdict: "Just a mistake anyone could have made in the bustle of a fast flash. No complaints otherwise on a well-controlled game."

Says Arsenal's Tommy Lawton: "The best players of today

Tyson And Hutton Top Averages

Melbourne. Frank Tyson's match-winning aggregate of nine wickets for 95 in the Third Test boosts his total in all first-class matches of the tour to 39 wickets at a cost of only 18.25 runs apiece.

He stays at the top of the MCC bowling averages. Close behind is fellow pace bowler Brian Statham who has taken 31 wickets, each costing 19.52 runs.

Despite Test failures, skipper Len Hutton leads the batting with 604 runs, average of 55.33. Next come Peter May and Denis Compton. Test hero Colin Cowdrey is fourth. He has scored 660 runs, average 41.25.

Just how much pace means to the MCC is shown by comparative wicket totals of the fast and slow men. Of the 143 wickets taken so far 113 have fallen to speed.

Bob Applebyard is the top spinner. He is third in the averages with 13 wickets at 22.77 each.

Fourth, but with the third highest aggregate, is Trevor Bailey. He has taken 22 wickets. All-rounder Bailey is also fifth in the batting.

Alec Bedser, still not fully recovered from the shingles which attacked him right at the start of tour, is last in bowling. His eight wickets have cost 44.5 runs each.

Ted "Kid" Lewis Has A New Job Now

Ted "Kid" Lewis has a new job now—but he won't make the £200,000 to £300,000 he made as World Welterweight Champion.

Now the ex-fighter's the man who hands you the change and the package of cigarettes in the Marylebone tobacconists' shop. And he hopes to become an inspector for the firm and do some travelling for them.

The "Aldgate Juggernaut" has used his boxing motto—"try everything"—for his career. "I've done everything," he says, "and since his gambling debts and losses from backing unsuccessful revues and other ventures drew him into bankruptcy in 1924—when he was only 28."

He has been a boxing trainer, referee, publican and in 1931 he even ran for a seat in Parliament for Sir Oswald Mosley's New Party. He has just given up working for his son making TV advertising films.

His fans, who will honour him as a boxer, and held the Lewis testimonial boxing match for him in 1935, will be able to applaud him in his most famous role when the TV film of his life is completed. (—London Express Service.)

United States-India Air Agreement Terminated CURTAILED SERVICES ARE SCHEDULED

Auckland, Jan. 11.
New Zealand should halt invasions of "feathered monstrosities," such as the Australian kookaburra, before it is too late, writes a correspondent to an Auckland newspaper.

The letter-writer is one of several people who have seen kookaburras in Auckland city recently. Some of these people thought they were "feeling things" being unaware that a colony of the birds was established on Kowhai Island, 20 miles from Auckland in the Hauraki Gulf, about the middle of last century.

The birds seem to be increasing in numbers and spreading to new districts from the vicinity of the island, where Governor Sir George Grey liberated small shipments between 1866 and 1880.

The correspondent fears that the birds may drive away native birds. "Enemies are few and the laughing jackasses are hardly cunning and adaptable and more than a match for anything they encounter here,"
China Mail Special.

Ancient Sword Found

Ulm, Jan. 11.
United States soldier Eugene
T. Gazzola, of Chicago, Illinois, found a 40-inch officer's sword dating from the Franco-Prussian War while "digging in" during a practice alert here.

The sword, caked with rust, bore the Wuertemberg royal crest engraved on the hand guard. Gazzola plans to have it cleaned and mounted to take home when he leaves Europe—

Washington, Jan. 11.
The United States announced termination today of its air transport agreement with India but said that American airlines will continue their services to and through India on a curtailed basis.

"Further discussions will be held at an appropriate time with a view to reaching an understanding on the terms of a new air transport agreement," the State Department said.

The announcement said that India issued temporary permits for landing and passage of Pan-American and Trans-World Airlines planes in India when "divergent points of view" between United States and Indian negotiations prevented renewal of a 1946 agreement prior to its termination on January 14, 1955.

Pan-American and TWA may operate two round-trip flights weekly to and through India under the interim arrangement.
In the past each company has been operating three round-trips weekly. Pan American will divide its two trips between New Delhi and Calcutta. TWA will serve Bombay on both flights.

The State Department said that the United States-Indian conversations "were carried on in a very friendly and cooperative spirit and in recognition of the value to both countries of uninterrupted air transport service between them."

NO TIME

"It was, however, not found possible in the time available at this stage to reconcile divergent points of view," it added.—United Press.

Effort To Break Reparations Deadlock

Tokyo, Jan. 11.
The Japanese Foreign
Office may shortly recall the Japanese Minister in Manila, Mr. Katsumi Ono, in a step to break the present stalemate in the Japan-Philippines reparations negotiations, according to Japanese press reports today.

No comment was immediately available on reports from the Japanese Foreign Office.
The reports said that Mr. Ono, who has headed the Japanese reparations talks in Manila, has expressed the desire to resign from his post.

The reports said he is expected to return home late this month or early next month.
Reports, quoting informed
Japanese circles, said Mr.
Mamoru Negami, who has been proposed as special envoy to Manila, was expected to receive orders to leave for the Philippines after the dissolution of Parliament, expected at the end of this month.

The reports added that the Foreign Office was expected to send Counselor Tetsuo Ueno, former chief of the third section of the Asian Bureau, in the Foreign Office, to its overseas office in Manila.—China Mail

New Type Of Housing For Soldiers On Arctic Duty

These newly constructed ice-cap huts have been developed by the United States Army forces as a new kind of housing for soldiers on Arctic duty. They are in the form of Nissen shelters which gradually sink lower and lower into the soft snow of the northern wastelands, at the rate of several feet a year. Entry into the new huts is made through expandable hatches. Each has sleeping quarters, mess hall and recreation room and maintains 72 degrees warmth in a temperature of 75 below. These are the first that have been built for continuous use on the icecap.—Express Photo.

Finland's Policy Approved By The Russians

The Finns' policy of "trade with the East and think with the West" has won new approval from the Soviet Government.

Mr Anstasi Mikoian, the Soviet Minister of Trade, who has been visiting Finland, made it clear repeatedly in public speeches that he is well pleased with Finnish-Soviet trade relations. The Finns had invited him to inspect shipyards and factories working on Soviet orders and this is all he did, authoritative sources say.

He raised no claims, made no complaints, but found many things to praise. Mr Urho Kekkonen, the Prime Minister, and other Finnish politicians stressed in their speeches of welcome to Mr Mikoian how satisfied they were with the Soviet Union, which has now ousted Britain as Finland's principal trading partner.

Yet the Finns were able, at the same time, to reject Russia's invitation to a European security conference. They told her that they would only come in if the rest of the Western world came.

Mr Mikoian showed no displeasure, or even disapproval, over this decision. Nor did his Government make any attempt to persuade the Finns to attend the reduced conference of Communist states, which was later held in Moscow.

Nor, again, was Mr Mikoian shocked when the Finns stressed the difference between the Soviet regime and their own free Western institutions. As Mr Kekkonen stated, Finland and the Soviet Union are a good example to other nations striving to reach agreement despite differences in their way of life and military strength.

Many foreign visitors to Finland have expressed fears that Soviet trade penetration into Finland will be followed by political penetration. The Finns, very jealous of their Western civilisation, refute these suggestions.

As Mr Gunnar Palmroth, chief of the Commercial Division of the Foreign Ministry, recently declared in the Bank of Finland's monthly bulletin, Finland's foreign trade inclines naturally towards the East because of her geographical position.

In 1954, 39 to 40 per cent of Finland's total foreign trade was with Soviet Russia. Yet she had sufficient political autonomy and independence to offer asylum to the early Bolsheviks fleeing from the imperial secret police.

Today, only 25 per cent of Finland's trade is with the Soviet Union. Britain, with about 23 per cent, comes a close second and hard after her come West Germany, the United States, the Netherlands and France.

Moreover, the Finns say, the Soviet Union is buying from them most of the output of their new power industries, which they would obviously be unable to sell to other countries because the prices are too high. The Soviet Government is willing to pay them because it needs the goods for its own economy and cannot obtain them in sufficient quantities elsewhere.

These new Finnish industries, mainly shipbuilding and engineering, were built up to replace Soviet Russia's 300,000,000 dollars (about £100,000,000) worth of reparations goods which the Finns undertook to supply under the postwar settlement.

When the last truckload of reparations had rolled over the frontier, the Finns found that they had factories and yards geared to turn out woodworking machinery, electrical equipment, sea-going tugs, trawlers, merchant ships and ice-breakers. For these products, the men making them would be thrown out of work and form a little army of discontent in a country striving to recover from two ruinous wars in five years.

A new long term agreement provides for Finnish-Soviet trade up to 1960. Under it, Finland's exports to the Soviet Union will be raised from 34,100 million marks (about £50,000,000) in 1955 to 37,800 million marks (about £55,000,000) in 1960.

Her imports from the Soviet Union were raised from 24,000 million marks (about £35,000,000) in 1955 to about 26,000 million marks (about £40,000,000) in 1960.

These increases are moderate since Finland's exports to the Soviet Union totalled 24,930 million marks and her imports from her 19,009 million marks alone in the first nine months of this year, the latest period for which figures are available.

Nor will there be much change in the composition of the deliveries.

Finland will send Russia ships, naval goods, engineering products and electrical equipment, and receive from her grain, liquid and solid fuel, metal and rolling mill products and other raw materials, and quantities for her own production.

Prices, as now, will be fixed in rubles on the basis of world market prices. The difference between Finland's exports and imports will be covered by triangular agreements in which Poland, Hungary or some other East European state will be the third party.

The Soviet Union, when settling with Finland will pay her in freely convertible foreign currency to the value of 2,300 million marks (about £3,500,000) a year.

Political relations between the two countries have not been chartered as clearly as their trade. There are signs, however, that as there is no increase in tension between the Great Powers, the Finns will be allowed to continue their free political life on the Soviet Union's doorstep.

They have had five different Governments in the past three years, all of them right wing and all able to maintain cordial relations with Moscow. Finnish politicians, who, immediately after the war, were branded as "warmongers" and "fascists" in the Soviet press, are now winned and dined in Moscow.—China Mail Special.
